Clinicnan Partners Program
hosted by the Charles F. and Joanne Knight Alzheimer’s Disease Research Center at Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis

The Clinician Partners Program (CPP) is a 1.5 day “mini residency” in dementia diagnosis and care. Sessions are facilitated by world-class dementia researchers and Washington University School of Medicine clinical faculty. This CME program is designed for clinicians (MD, DO, PA, FNP, advanced practice nurses) who see older adult patients in rural areas of Missouri and metro-adjacent Illinois.

The CPP program includes a case study session and didactic presentations on:
- Early Detection, Testing, Diagnostic Guidelines
- Understanding AD Biomarkers
- Differential Diagnosis
- AD Treatment and Psychiatric Considerations
- Clinical Trials and Directions in Research
- The Caregiving Experience: Stress, Safety and Managing Challenging Behaviors
- Non-pharmacological Intervention and Symptom Management
- Health Disparities and Overcoming Barriers
- Safety Considerations: Falls, Driving, Medications and Weapons
- Show-Me ECHO Dementia Program

Attendance is FREE and clinician partners receive:
- 2 nights of paid hotel accommodations in St. Louis
- Reimbursement for travel
- Reimbursement for dinner, with other meals provided
- 12.75 hours of Continuing Medical Education (CME) credit
- Resource materials

If you are interested in attending the September 22-23, 2022 session of the CPP, please contact Jennifer Phillips at phillipsj@wustl.edu or 314-286-2882.
